

This book is a word of fiction. Names, characters, places, and incidents are either products of the author's imagination or are used fictitiously.